PRICE OF COPPER

PREVENTS A PROFIT

The Engels Copper company, of Porola, Cal., has now milled one million tons of ore taken from its properties in the Engle mine district.

This is disclosed in a report issued by general manager E. E. Paxton, declaring that the future outlook for the properties is good, but pointing out that little in the way of profits is possible under the present conditions. Paxton states that while the cost of operating is about seventy-five per cent higher than at the beginning of the war period, the price of copper is only two cents per pound above the ten year average.

WATER RECORDS OF NYE COUNTY

The state engineer's office has found some valuable water rights data in the supreme court records. The adjustment of rights on Current creek, Nye county, is to be made by the state engineer.

Records of a suit filed in the supreme court in 1875 have been found, together with maps, data and evidence that established rights of parties long since dead. The suit was that of Richard Barnes, as appellant vs. Joseph Sabron, et al. R. M. Clark and G. R. Williams represented the appellant while E. P. Sine and P. H. Clayton appeared for the respondent. The entire record is hand written, but carries out details that are of vast value to all concerned. Practically all of the parties concerned, together with the lawyers, have died, leaving this established record for the present generation.

A general survey of the water and irrigation conditions of Nevada is to be undertaken by State Engineer Scruggs. He leaves for Duckwater and Current Creek section, where a

FIND WAY OUT DEATH VALLEY

LOS ANGELES, April 15.—Milton Moore, a moving picture photographer, of 1944 Tenth street, and Millard Wilson, a government geologist, have escaped from the perils of Death Valley, where it has been feared for nearly a week that they had perished and where an airplane had been searching for them for some time.

Assurance of their safety and details of their adventures are contained in a telegram filed at Death Valley Junction, following: "We lost our way in south end of Death Valley. We were completely lost for five days as our car went down in salt marsh in floor of valley. We were forced to walk twenty-eight miles. Ran out of water. Found Furnace Creek ranch at 5 o'clock in morning. Mr. Denton, foreman of ranch, cared for us two days we were so exhausted."

"We started for north end of valley and broke spindle of auto. Were forced to walk to Ryan. Car still in desert waiting for parts. We have secured a wonderful picture of the weird and most death-dealing desert in America. We will proceed north to finish picture and reach Los Angeles early part of week. We have Death Valley in a photo, which is the only safe way to view it."

A week ago Mr. Moore sent a telegram to his wife announcing that they had broken an axle of their car and consequently would be back here the next day. When they did not arrive Mrs. Moore feared for their safety and sent George Marshall, former army aviator, and a friend volunteered to conduct a search in an airplane. He went alone over the desert.

Wednesday night about 10 o'clock Mrs. Moore received a telegram from Mr. Marshall announcing that he had circled over the desert and seen a broken-down car but no trace of the occupants. About midnight, two hours later, Mrs. Moore received a brief message by wire from her husband at Death Valley Junction, stating that he was safe and would wire details later.
